Happy April and welcome to issue 417 of the Hotbox. We're four months in to the new year, and four months in to the grand experiment of an online HB. So far it seems to be going well, though I'm a bit surprised by the relatively low number of members who chose the online option. Of the 55 or so members we have, only 15 of you are receiving an online issue. This is why I chose to mention it this month. I want to make sure everyone out there in TAMR-land is aware the we offer such an option, so... The Hotbox is now available online IN COLOR, and I've got to say the difference is quite amazing both in the text effects, and picture clarity. You really should give it a try. Don't worry though, if you prefer the old-fashioned paper version, it's not being eliminated, I'll keep the presses running for you as long as we have money to do so.

This is an election year, and so far I've heard from no one, whether they be a present officer or other member about running for office. The September deadline will be here before you know it, so if you want to run let me know ASAP, so I can add your name to the ballot. Be prepared to make a short statement on why you want to run and what you plan to do, to be published in the November issue (studies show you have a better chance of winning when people know who you are).

The TAMR's summer convention is only three month's away! The Burning River Limited 2008, will feature a scenic train trip, several rail museums, and more. I still need members to do slide shows, and clinics. We have digital projection equipment so all you'll need is a CD, flash drive, or other storage device if you want to give a presentation. Please let me know if your interested in attending, and hosting a slide show, or clinic asap, as time is running out. So far aside from myself, we'll hopefully have Matt Roberts, Tim Vermande, Chris Burchett, Drew Matarrazzo, and most importantly you. (I know it's cheesy, but I couldn't resist). Later dudes!•

WELCOME TO AMERICAS SOON TO BE FASTEST GROWING ARTICLE SENSATION. RAILFAN RANTINGS. IN THIS COLUMN I POSE A QUESTION TO OUR MEMBERS VIA THE TAMR ONLINE GROUP AT YAHOO. AND HOPEFULLY COME AWAY WITH SOME INSIGHTFUL, AMUSING, AND POSSIBLY SILLY ANSWERS. THIS MONTH'S QUESTION:

Photo Edition

WINE08 PART 2

Or, MR. Pete goes to West Springfield.
Written By: Peter "Mr. Pete" Maurath

Saturday morning saw the arrival of the last of the convention attendees including Doug Engler, Andrew Matarrazzo and James Lincoln. Saturday is also traditionally the "visiting day" for all the former and present members who can't attend the whole convention, but make it to the show. Those include veteran members this year such as the other half of the famed "drew-crew" Andrew Sabens, as well as former Northeast Region Rep, Jim Spavins, whom with his dad helps operate and construct modules for the massive HO scale Mohegan and Pequot modular layout at the show.

The rest of my day at the show was spent watching the LEO, keeping the table stocked with flyers and HB's as well as answering questions. Surprisingly no one mistook our table for the New Haven Historical Society this year, I was almost a little disappointed. I also enjoyed watching the glittering displays coming from the Micro-Engineering table behind us and all their animated electric signs. One of these years, I've gotta work one of those into the LEO.

While me and Chris were anchored to the table (though Chris did take a suspiciously long bathroom break) everyone else came and went from the table throughout the show day, dropping-off purchases, or trying them out on the HO layout. Some read books they had purchased, while others would hang out for a bit, rest their feet then charge back into the sea of humanity looking for more deals. Believe me, there deals to be had at this show. This is, after all, one of the biggest train shows in North America (it has been second to Chicago as the nations largest in years past) and if you can't find it here, it probably doesn't exist. Everything from brass GEVOs to life-size Conrail number boards. Nearly every major manufacturer has a display showing off there up and coming products. Hobby shops from all over New England, and the Midwest come here. Then there's the layout's in every major scale from Z on up to large scales. Trolleys, and Acelas, to Big Boys, and AC6000's. There was even an HO scale European themed layout complete with continental equipment, scenery, even a beer-haus! (the little figures in lederhosen were a nice touch) This is show that needs an entire weekend, because it takes that long just to see everything.

Once the show closes at five we gather up the troops and head back the hotel to decide on dinner, check out the caboose contest entries, and view a few slides. After an hour of lengthily debate we decide on pizza and while we wait browse Newton's TAMR video collection. The caboose entries are also brought out and while all in HO cover a broad range, from Willie's Army caboose, to Andrew's graffiti covered Penn Centrals crummy. Four cabooses were entered in all and congrats to the members who participated. Hopefully this will spawn a bigger competition for free show entry next year.

Following dinner it's slide show time. This year we have two presentations, the first is from veteran TAMR member Tom Matthews, and his collection of New England railroading photos from the 1970's. It's a fascinating walk in the past to see the railroads in the midst of one of the biggest transitions in their history. Following Tom is slide show regular Willie Roberge and his collection of slides from just about everywhere. He has many of his own from his days working on the Bay Colony RR, but he also likes to buy slides as has a pretty extensive collection of shots from all over the US. So many that I just can't stay awake long enough to see them all, off to bed.

Sunday and we're back at the show for the closing day. Traffic is usually a little lighter, so I pry myself away from the table and get out to see the show and what's new. After much debate me and Chris decide to add to the LEO's loco fleet with a few units from Tucker's Hobbies (a local shop with a HUGE display in our building). It helped that the salesman was a big fan of our layout and made us a deal on anything we were interested in. A very dangerous thing to say to a hobbyist with credit cards, but I kept myself to just the NW2 switcher, and a 60ft boxcar, and a scale test car, and...

Soon the show was closing, we were packing up saying our goodbyes, and wondering where all the time went. Me, Chris and Willie would remain through Sunday night departing early Monday across the frozen landscapes for home. All in all another great train show and great convention, as for my organization skills, wait till next year.●

TEEN ASSOCIATION OF MODEL RAILROADERS

RAILROAD CINEMA PRESENTS: "EMPEROR OF THE NORTH" By: Willie Roberge

Last month we left off with the two main character's A No. 1, and Cigaret two hobo's getting caught aboard Shack's (the conductor) train. As a result they are locked in an Empty Cattle Car which as A No. 1 points out will soon be filled with steer and "Steer have horns we don't kid." Cigaret wonders how they will escape there almost certain doom. A No. 1 has the answer by burning their way out!!!

Both A No. 1 and Cigaret are able to jump through the flames and out of the Car. Shack is livid at what has happened and blames everyone else unable to admit someone had rode his train!!! His fellow railroaders catch Cigaret as he escapes and decide that they can use him to embarrass Shack as they, like the Hobos, despise and fear him. News now spreads that there is a new king of the road, a new "Emperor of the North Pole!" The Hobos and the Railroaders both see this as the event of the year!!!!

When Shack gets wind that A No. 1 intends to ride the 19 all the way to Portland the stakes get higher and Shack will stop at nothing to prevent it. A No. 1 will use everything he knows to successfully make the trip all the while fighting every trick Shack can throw at him plus deal with the amateur mistakes of Cigaret. Shack uses his hammer, a rope, and his chain to keep them off his train. He uses everything in his arsenal to stop them or kick them off without waiting for the train to stop! This goes on for the whole movie climaxing in a final battle between Shack and A No. 1 on a moving flatcar!!!!

This is a great movie for railfans because of the great shots of Number 19 and it's train. There are great close-ups of 19's running gear at speed as well as it's stack and whistle. The rolling stock used on the trains is painted for the fallen flags (Great Northern, Northern Pacific, that would have been seen at that time and are of proper vintage, (wooden boxcars and reefers as well as steel cars all with roof-walks). The train travels through impressive scenery, through cuts and over bridges including an impressive tall curved wooden trestle.

Do you smell smoke?
